Citing Sources: Chicago Style

This handout is intended as a short guide for citing sources using MLA style. See the Chicago Manual of Style, 15th edition for a complete guide. It is available in the Quick Reference section of the Ablah Library located beside the reference desk. The call number is Z 253 .C57 15th.

The key to citing is to give the reader enough information to locate the source. Citations for different types of sources differ because the pieces of information needed to find those sources are different.
